THE 2022 PEOPLE'S SCORECARD

INSIDE:

- 2022 Legislative Champions
- LePage's impact on Maine's social safety net
- The Governor's Score
- ...and more!

TO OUR MEMBERS,

MPA is working every day to pass policies in Maine that will allow us to build a world where everyone has what they need, contributes what they can, and where no one is left behind. We make more progress towards this vision each year, and we are excited to share with you the enclosed legislative scorecard that summarizes progress towards some of our policy priorities in the most recent legislative session.

This year marks an important achievement for MPA; it's our 40th anniversary! What began as a small group of Lewiston neighbors around a kitchen table in 1982 has grown into a statewide organization with over 32,000 members and a record of winning historic campaigns for social change.

We are celebrating forty years of real progress. When dangerous political leaders have used racism to divide people, MPA members have always come together across lines of difference to demand justice for all, no exceptions. When big corporations have tried to get away with polluting our rivers, cheating their way out of taxes and corrupting politicians, MPA members have won lawsuits and passed policies to reign in their power. When lawmakers have failed to make progress on some of the issues most important to Maine voters—low wages, access to health care, voting rights and more—MPA has put power in the hands of voters, and won ballot initiatives that have transformed our state.

We are celebrating forty years of grassroots power. For decades, MPA members have shown what's possible when everyday people decide to get involved in working for change. We have developed thousands of volunteer leaders and recruited hundreds of Mainers to run for elected office. We have stayed true to the convictions of our early founders that those best positioned to lead efforts to remedy injustice are those who have experienced the impacts of that injustice in their daily lives. We have supported Mainers without health insurance in leading a campaign to win Medicaid expansion; we have organized Maine workers to fight for and win paid time off; we have united residents along the Penobscot River to join a lawsuit to hold Mallinckrodt corporation accountable for their mercury pollution. MPA members have shown us, time after time, that we are more powerful together than any one of us could be alone.

Finally, we are celebrating forty years of remarkable people. Everything MPA has accomplished has been made possible by countless people in Maine who have made the choice to stand up for what they believe in. MPA members have bravely shared their stories of personal hardship and injustice; they have spoken truth to power even when change has felt unlikely; they have pushed themselves to learn from defeats and grow with changing times. For 40 years, MPA members have refused to give up on winning the world we want for future generations.

The remainder of 2022 will be busy. We'll be working to remind Mainers about the dangers of re-electing former Governor Paul LePage, and getting out the vote for progressive champions in districts across Maine. We'll be collecting petition signatures to launch a ballot initiative for paid family and medical leave for Maine workers and families. We'll be starting a new "deep canvass" program to engage Maine voters in conversations about the role of immigrants in Maine communities and the need to push back against the xenophobic rhetoric that pits neighbors against one another. Our news website, Beacon, will continue to lift up the voices that other news outlets ignore. We'll be doing all of this and more, and we'd love for you to get involved!

We also hope you can join us in celebrating forty years of people, power and progress on September 23rd in Portland (see our website for details on tickets). This year we are also working to get 4,000 MPA members to donate monthly to MPA through their checking accounts (you can use the enclosed envelope). Please consider supporting our next generation of work! (you can use the enclosed envelope).

Thank you for your support, and best wishes to you and your loved ones.

ABOUT MPA

The Maine People's Alliance (MPA) is Maine's largest community action organization, representing over 32,000 members across the state. Our mission is to create a world where everyone has what they need, contributes what they can, and no one is left behind.

Throughout the organization's 40-year history, MPA has worked on dozens of local, state and national issue campaigns. From holding corporate polluters accountable, to organizing to raise the minimum wage, to standing up for immigrant rights, MPA members have joined neighbors and friends to work for the kind of world in which we want to live.

FIND YOUR POWER WITH MPA'S VOLUNTEER LOBBY TEAM

Each week during the legislative session, members of MPA's volunteer lobby team travel to Augusta, where they get to speak directly with lawmakers about their personal experiences and the various bills that would make a difference in their lives. For many, this experience has taught them the power of their personal story as well as the impact they can make on their own state and community. We asked members of our lobby team to share a time that they felt powerful this past legislative session.

Lobby team co-leader Amy Larkin of Arundel said she felt powerful when she participated in a press conference and delivered a petition with over 1,200 signatures in support of a statewide Paid Family and Medical Leave policy to the governor's office. Amy, who provides care for her 100-year-old grandmother, said, "it was great to stand alongside mothers, grandmothers, business owners and students in calling for a system that will benefit all Mainers."

University of Maine student Lucca Hamina said he felt powerful after the legislature passed a bill to help secure clean water for the Passamaquoddy people at Sipayik. Though disappointed by the failure of the tribal sovereignty bill to be signed into law, Lucca said it was good "knowing that even if not all bills can get passed some will and those acts can improve people's lives."

Gina Morin had tried for years to recruit their friend Donna Blanchette-Lizotte to come to a MPA lobby day. Gina said it was powerful to see Donna, "who is so affected by policy find her voice," and share her experience with her elected officials. Donna agreed, saying that, despite being nervous, sharing her experience with lawmakers made her feel "validated for the first time in forever."

ABOUT THE SCORECARD

At MPA, we wake up in the morning thinking about how to move power from the wealthy and corporate interests that dominate our government and economy into the hands of everyday people. One of the ways we do that is making sure that Maine people have the tools they need to participate in our democracy and hold our elected officials accountable.

Every year, MPA releases a legislative scorecard to show how your state legislators voted on the most critical issues that defined each legislative session and made the biggest impact on people's lives. There are more than 1,500 bills typically heard in a two-year session, so we try to cut through the noise and highlight the votes that mattered the most.

Our scorecard covers a wide range of issues, because we know that Mainers struggle with a bunch of things at once: making ends meet, finding affordable healthcare, helping family members struggling with substance use disorder, sending our kids to underfunded schools, and facing discrimination. We take a comprehensive look at ALL bills that got a vote and select the ones that represent the full range of what makes a difference in the lives of Mainers.

Every Mainer should know whether their elected officials were actually representing their values.

BILL DESCRIPTIONS

LD 151 - Allowing Farm Workers to Unionize

Sponsored by Representative Thom Harnett (D-Gardiner)

✓ MPA SUPPORTED

This bill would have made it legal for farm workers to organize for the sake of bargaining for wages, benefits and other working conditions without fear of reprisal.

WHY IT MATTERS: Both the Fair Labor Standards Act and the National Labor Relations Act, passed as part of the New Deal, excluded farm workers and domestic workers — groups that have and continue to be largely composed of people of color. LD151 sought to right this historical wrong of farm workers being excluded from labor protections and joint states like California, where farmworkers have had the ability to unionize since the 1970s.

WHAT HAPPENED: Late last session, the House and Senate passed LD 151, giving Governor Mills three days at the beginning of this session to either veto the bill, sign it into law, or allow it to become law without her signature. She vetoed it and House lawmakers were unable to reach the two-thirds majority necessary for a veto override.

HOUSE ROLL CALL: 448 (House vote failing to override governor's veto)

LD 585 - Expanding Tribal Gaming

Original bill sponsored by Assistant Majority Leader Rachel Talbot Ross (D-Portland) and amendment sponsored by Senator Anne Carney (D-Cumberland)

✓ MPA SUPPORTED

LD 585 grants the tribes access to Maine's mobile sports betting market, reduces tribal taxes, and creates a pathway for greater collaboration between the Wabanaki Nations and the State.

WHY IT MATTERS: The Wabanaki Nations were independent and self-sufficient before European colonization. However, centuries of colonization and exploitation have sapped the tribes of much of their land and resources. Granting them control of mobile sports betting is a small but necessary step for the tribes to regain their economic independence.

WHAT HAPPENED: Governor Mills lifted up LD 585 as a compromise in response to the more sweeping LD 1626. While the tribes supported LD 585, they were clear that their ultimate goal was full recognition of tribal sovereignty. The legislature passed LD 585 and the governor signed it into law.

HOUSE ROLL CALL: 573
SENATE ROLL CALL: 791

LD 696 - Prohibiting Solitary Confinement

Sponsored by Representative Grayson Lookner (D-Portland)

✓ MPA SUPPORTED

LD 696 in its original form sought to define and regulate the use of solitary confinement in Maine's Correction System. The bill was narrowed to merely define and report on solitary confinement after facing opposition from the Maine Department of Corrections (MDOC) and its allies.

WHY IT MATTERS: The United Nations defines solitary confinement as a form of torture. That is because it causes lasting—often irreparable—psychological damage and shortens lives and makes successful rehabilitation and reentry near impossible. We should not be spending taxpayer dollars on torture. MDOC denies that solitary confinement is still being practiced in Maine, but incarcerated people and family members say it continues under different euphemistic names like “segregated housing,” “maximum security,” “isolation” or “room confinement,” depending on the facility.

WHAT HAPPENED: An amended version of the bill passed the House 78-58 on March 29, but Senator Susan Deschambault, who worked for the MDOC for over 40 years, radically altered the bill by introducing an amendment that struck any mention of solitary confinement from state statute and the bill died in nonconcurrence between chambers.

HOUSE ROLL CALL: 565
SENATE ROLL CALL: 755

LD 906 - Addressing the Water Crisis at Sipayik

Sponsored by Representative Rena Newell (Passamaquoddy)

✓ MPA SUPPORTED

LD 906 will help address the ongoing water crisis at Sipayik (Pleasant Point reservation) by exempting the Passamaquoddy Water District from paying property taxes, allowing the utility to cover costs associated with necessary water quality upgrades. The bill will also open up two parcels of Passamaquoddy land to serve as alternative sources of water. Finally, the bill would allow the Passamaquoddy Tribe to regulate their own drinking water in coordination with the Environmental Protection Agency — just as all other tribes outside of Maine do.

WHY IT MATTERS: The Passamaquoddy water crisis is perhaps the most striking example of the detrimental impact of state control over tribal affairs. For decades, people who live on the reservation have had water pouring from their taps that is often odorous, discolored and tainted with high levels of carcinogens. Allowing the Passamaquoddy to regulate their own water supply will return a small but significant part of the sovereignty that the state has taken from them.

WHAT HAPPENED: LD 906 passed both chambers of the legislature with bipartisan majorities and was signed by the governor.

HOUSE ROLL CALL: 552 (to accept the amended majority committee report)
SENATE ROLL CALL: 749

LD 1129 - Stopping “Dark Stores” tax scheme

Sponsored by Representative Ann Matlack (D-St. George)

✓ MPA SUPPORTED

Large chain stores try to exploit a “dark store” tax scheme by arguing their retail properties should be valued the same as abandoned shopping centers that have lost economic value. LD 1129 empowers towns to fairly tax retail properties and prevent big corporations from exploiting this tax scheme.

WHY IT MATTERS: Our communities are stronger when everyone, including the wealthy and big corporations, pay their fair share in taxes. A 2019 report by the Maine Center for Economic Policy (MECEP) found that of the 25 Maine towns with the highest retail sales, 17 had big box stores appeal their property tax valuations. Facing megacorporations like Walmart with nearly unlimited resources, many towns give into their appeals, costing taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars in possible revenue and robbing our communities of resources to invest in important programs that benefit everyone.

WHAT HAPPENED: LD 1129 passed both chambers and went into law without the governor's signature.

HOUSE ROLL CALL: 464
SENATE ROLL CALL: 749

LD 1337 - Vacant Properties Fee to Fund Affordable Housing

Sponsored by Representative Christopher Kessler (D-South Portland)

✓ MPA SUPPORTED

This bill as amended would have enabled municipalities to create a modest tax on year-round homes that are unoccupied for more than six months of the year to encourage second homeowners to rent their homes to local residents and provide additional funding for affordable housing. LD 1337 also provided generous exemptions to ensure that anyone receiving any public assistance, moderate income Mainers who earn less than 150% of the median income in the Portland metro area, owners of seasonal camps, homes offering licensed child care and others are exempt from the vacancy tax.

WHY IT MATTERS: Maine has the highest rate of vacant homes in the country, which puts additional pressure on our lack of housing statewide. This bill would have created an incentive to use vacation homes as year-round housing and additional funding for affordable housing development and preservation.

WHAT HAPPENED: The bill didn't pass.
HOUSE ROLL CALL: 465
SENATE ROLL CALL: 620

LD 1338 - Preventing Retaliation Against Using Paid Time Off

Sponsored by Representative Rebecca Millett (D-Cape Elizabeth)

✓ MPA SUPPORTED

LD 1338 sought to close a loophole in our state's Paid Time Off law that hampered its effectiveness by allowing employers to reassign or demote an employee, reduce their hours, pass them over for promotions, or even fire them for taking the PTO they have rightly earned.

WHY IT MATTERS: No one should have to choose between a paycheck or taking care of themselves or a loved one. When retaliation is legal, it has a chilling effect on employees' ability to exercise their labor rights.

WHAT HAPPENED: Last year both chambers voted to pass LD 1338. This year Governor Mills vetoed the bill and the House failed to reach a two-thirds majority to override the veto.

HOUSE VETO OVERRIDE ROLL CALL: 615

LD 1610 - Improving Data Collection to Inform Better Policymaking

Sponsored by Assistant Majority Leader Rachel Talbot Ross (D-Portland)

✓ MPA SUPPORTED

This bill would provide the public and lawmakers with a better understanding of our population and how it is changing over time. It would also set standards for how data is collected, stored and accessed by establishing a state data governance program. It was written as a companion to legislation passed last session to establish racial impact statements for bills, which is an assessment of the potential impact that legislation could have on historically disadvantaged racial populations, similar to how all legislation receives a fiscal note.

WHY IT MATTERS: For our state to grow and prosper, we need to ensure Maine is a state where everyone, regardless of race, can thrive. We know that Maine is not immune to systemic racism and that many of our systems work better for white Mainers than for racial and ethnic minorities or members of tribal nations. Laws and policies that have an unequal racial effect are part of systemic racism. In order for racial impact statements to give lawmakers a full picture of how proposed laws will impact different populations, we need better data. This bill allows policymakers to collect and track more and better information about Maine people to help inform the best policy decisions.

WHAT HAPPENED: LD 1610 passed and was signed by the governor.

HOUSE ROLL CALL: 486

SENATE ROLL CALL: 649

LD 1626 - Restoring Tribal Sovereignty

Sponsored by Assistant Majority Leader Rachel Talbot-Ross (D-Portland)

✓ MPA SUPPORTED

This bill updates Maine law to restore sovereign rights to the Wabanaki tribes in Maine, reestablishing the same rights as citizens of all other federally recognized tribes in the United States.

WHY IT MATTERS: The Wabanaki Nations, who lived in this region for thousands of years before European colonizers arrived, are still fighting for their rights as sovereign nations to be recognized by the State. LD 1626 would have altered the Maine Indian Claims Settlement Act of 1980, which has left the Wabanaki with less authority over natural resources, gaming, taxation and criminal justice than 570 other federally recognized tribes. This has stifled economic development and has prevented tribes from accessing federal funding.

WHAT HAPPENED: Thanks to the tireless work of tribal leaders and allies, LD 1626 passed both chambers of the legislature with bipartisan support. However after the Governor signaled strong opposition to the bill and a veto threat, the bill was held back by the legislature on procedural and technical grounds and died at the end of session without arriving at the Governor's desk.

LD 1639 - Stopping Out-of-state Toxic Waste Dumping

Sponsored by Senator Anne Carney (D-Cumberland)

✓ MPA SUPPORTED

This bill closes a loophole that allowed toxic waste from neighboring New England state to be dumped at the state-owned Juniper Ridge landfill.

WHY IT MATTERS: Juniper Ridge landfill in Alton, which borders the Penobscot Nation reservation, has long been a dumping ground for toxic waste from surrounding states. About 90% of the waste sent to a processing facility in Lewiston that ends up in Juniper Ridge is from out of state, with the bulk of that from Massachusetts. In addition, Juniper Ridge is filling 32% faster than anticipated. If it continues to expand, it would lead to increased pollution, disproportionately impacting citizens of Penobscot Nation, residents living near the landfill, and the Penobscot River and Bay.

WHAT HAPPENED: LD 1639 passed the legislature with overwhelming support and was signed by the governor.

LD 1704 - Changing Estate Tax to Fund Affordable Housing

Sponsored by House Assistant Majority Leader Rachel Talbot-Ross (D-Portland)

✓ MPA SUPPORTED

Large chain stores try to exploit a "dark store" tax scheme by arguing their retail properties should be valued the same as abandoned shopping centers that have lost economic value. A 2019 report by the Maine Center for Economic Policy (MECEP) found that of the 25 Maine towns with the highest retail sales, 17 had big box stores appeal their property tax valuations. LD 1129 empowers towns to fairly tax retail properties. LD 1704 redirects 50% of the revenue from the estate tax into the Maine State Housing Authority's fund to construct new affordable housing units.

WHY IT MATTERS: Maine is facing an affordable housing crisis, with a shortage of 20,000 affordable housing units. By restoring the estate tax and directing its revenue toward affordable housing, we could have addressed two growing crises: wealth inequality and affordable housing.

WHAT HAPPENED: Former Governor Paul LePage created a large loophole in Maine's estate tax, increasing the exemption amount from $1 million to over $5 million. LD 1704 originally sought to return the estate tax to pre-LePage levels. Coming up against Governor Mills' opposition to raising taxes, Rep. Talbot-Ross amended the bill to keep the exclusion amount unchanged but still designate 50% of estate tax revenue to affordable housing. The bill died at the end of session due to lack of funding being appropriated for the bill.

HOUSE ROLL CALL: 494

SENATE ROLL CALL: 662

LD 1862 - Expanding Maine's Good Samaritan Law

Sponsored by Senator Chloe Maxmin (D-Lincoln)

✓ MPA SUPPORTED

LD 1862 expands Maine's Good Samaritan law, which ensures that people who call for medical help at the scene of an overdose are protected from certain criminal offenses. The bill expands legal protections to anyone rendering aid at the scene of an overdose from arrest or prosecution for nearly all non-violent crimes in addition to probation and bail condition violations.

WHY IT MATTERS: Maine's approach to drug use has long prioritized incarceration over compassion leading to deadly consequences for our communities. Last year, we lost 636 Mainers to preventable overdoses, nearly two a day. The threat of criminal penalties instills fear in individuals at the scene of an overdose, which leads to countless preventable deaths. LD 1862 makes it easier for people to do the right thing in that moment and save lives and it moves our state one step closer to a more compassionate, public health-driven approach to drug policy.

WHAT HAPPENED: Thanks to tireless organizing by advocates in the recovery community, the bill won strong bipartisan votes in both chambers, rejecting an amendment from Governor Mills that would have severely weakened the bill. Advocates refused to back down in the face of a veto threat from the Governor, ultimately bringing Mills to the negotiating table to pass a strong compromise bill that will make Maine's Good Samaritan law one of the strongest in the nation.

LD 1909 - Removing Restrictions on Syringe Service Programs

Sponsored by Representative Genevieve McDonald (D-Stonington)

✓ MPA SUPPORTED

LD 1909 puts Maine in line with public health recommendations by rescinding a policy known as one-for-one exchange, which requires providers to receive a used syringe from a person in order to provide them a clean one. It instead empowers the Maine CDC to determine the number of needles that may be provided. This comes on the heels of a bill from last session, also from Rep. McDonald, that decriminalized syringe possession.

WHY IT MATTERS: Too many of our leaders continue to approach drug use as an issue of crime and punishment rather than a matter of public health and our communities pay the price. People who use intravenous drugs will continue to do so regardless of whether they have access to a clean syringe or not. LD 1909 saves lives by reducing infection and disease.

WHAT HAPPENED: LD 1909 passed both chambers and was signed into law by the governor.

HOUSE ROLL CALL: 461

LD 1961 - Reforming the Maine State Housing Board

Sponsored by Senator Craig Hickman (D-Kennebec)

✓ MPA SUPPORTED

LD 1961 addresses housing disparities and prioritizes fair housing in the state's goals for land use and development. It also changes the board of the state housing authority by clarifying the need for more impacted voices to be represented on the board—from tenant advocates to fair housing experts to energy efficiency experts.

WHY IT MATTERS: Maine needs a multi-pronged approach to solving our housing crisis. Part of the solution is to build more housing of all types. This bill would make that more of a priority in our zoning and land use regulations. It would also add important voices to the board of the state housing authority.

WHAT HAPPENED: The bill passed and was signed by the governor.

HOUSE ROLL CALL: 522

SENATE ROLL CALL: 700

LD 1969 - Strong Labor Standards for Renewable Energy Projects

Sponsored by Representative Scott Cuddy (D-Winterport)

✓ MPA SUPPORTED

LD 1969 helps create a just transition to renewable energy by applying a prevailing wage to green energy projects. It also uses apprenticeships and pre-apprenticeships to create a pathway to good clean energy jobs for women, people of color, New Mainers and other groups underrepresented in the construction industry.

WHY IT MATTERS: Our response to climate change has the potential to create thousands of new jobs throughout our economy, but we must take deliberate steps to create high quality, family-sustaining jobs and advance equity in our policies. LD 1969 ensures that those most impacted by climate change are able to take part in the green energy revolution to address it. Pre-apprenticeship and apprenticeship programs will help workers earn while they learn and Maine will develop a skilled, local clean energy workforce for these projects and beyond.

WHAT HAPPENED: LD 1969 passed the legislature, was funded and went into law without the governor's signature.

HOUSE ROLL CALL: 558

SENATE ROLL CALL: 778

LD 2003 - Reforming Zoning Laws to Encourage More Affordable Housing

Sponsored by Speaker of the House Ryan Fecteau (D-Biddeford)

✓ MPA SUPPORTED

Last year a state commission explored opportunities to reform Maine's zoning and land use laws to encourage the construction of more housing. LD 2003 incorporates several recommendations from the commission including expanding the right to build accessory dwelling units (basement apartments, granny flats, carriage houses, etc.), increase housing density for affordable housing development in certain areas, and require that local zoning actively supports fair housing.

WHY IT MATTERS: When communities lack a diversity of housing types, people can't live near where they work, schools become segregated by class and people are forced to leave communities that they love. By reforming some of the state's most restrictive and outdated zoning laws, we can better ensure that every community contributes to meeting our housing needs and benefits by being a place with the housing needed to meet the demand.

WHAT HAPPENED: The original bill was significantly amended to address municipal concerns. It passed and was signed by the governor.

Where can I find bill descriptions?
Here: <http://mpascorecard.org/bills>.

To learn more about each individual bill, click the "details" box.

Why are some bills scored in the House and not the Senate, and vice-versa?
We score bills that received a "roll call" vote (where the individual "yes" or "no" votes on a bill are recorded). Not every bill receives a "roll call" in both chambers. Sometimes that's because the vote was never taken up by one of the chambers. Other times it's because the bill passed "under the hammer," meaning unanimously. We can't score a bill if we don't know how each legislator voted on it, so there are a few cases where we could only score it in the House or the Senate.

How are absences scored?
We at MPA believe in the importance of having a legislature led by everyday Mainers. However, the challenges of being a working person or someone with caretaking responsibilities makes legislative duties increasingly difficult for some lawmakers. Due to the additional restrictions and challenges of the pandemic, this year we decided to part from tradition and not count absences against a lawmaker's score as we hope it more accurately reflects who votes to support progressive policies in Maine.

Do you have scores from the previous legislative session?
Yes, visit <https://mpascorecard.org/2019> to view our 2019 scorecard and visit <https://mpascorecard.org/2018/> to view our 2018 scorecard.

What do I do with this information?
First: Please share this scorecard. Every Mainer has the right to know how their elected officials voted, and whether they were actually representing their constituents—or the interests of the wealthy and corporations.
Second: Get involved. Write or call your legislator to tell them your thoughts on their votes. And the ultimate form of accountability? Elections. You can see if your legislators are up for re-election when you look up their score. Happy with how they voted? Volunteer to knock on some doors, make phone calls, and help get them back in office. Unhappy with their score? Volunteer with the person challenging them.

In 2022 Session, Mills Moved by Advocacy to Support Progressive Policies

MILLS, JANET	D	83%	VETO	SIGNED	SIGNED	LAW w/o SIGNATURE	VETO	SIGNED	SIGNED	SIGNED	SIGNED	LAW w/o SIGNATURE	LAW w/o SIGNATURE	SIGNED

In the third legislative year shaped by the COVID-19 pandemic and its fallout, Gov. Janet Mills stayed her established course. She signed into law a number of bills that will make a real difference in many Mainers' lives. She was also less inclined to exercise overt veto power and, facing extraordinary advocacy efforts led by ordinary Mainers including many of MPA's 32,000 members, came to the table to negotiate some significant compromises.

In this legislative session, Gov. Janet Mills signed bills that will help address serious issues in Maine, including climate change, education, and public and mental health. These include LD 1911, which makes Maine the first state to ban the spread of PFAS-laced fertilizer on Maine farmland; LD 1639, which closes a loophole that allowed out-of-state waste to be dumped in Maine, and LD 1862, which strengthens Maine's Good Samaritan law. Her administration also advocated on behalf of zoning reforms and affordable housing energy efficiency, and funded key positions to support that work in her budget.

Many of Mills' actions this session will make a positive difference in the lives of Mainers, even as her outlook consistently falls to the more conservative side of the Democratic spectrum on some of the issues most important to MPA members. These include criminal law and incarceration, drug policy, and worker rights. She also consistently opposed tribal sovereignty.

But we saw this session that as a result of successful advocacy efforts by ordinary Mainers including MPA members and many others, she was moved to support bills or negotiate with advocates over bills she may initially have opposed.

One major shift for Mills this session was that she vetoed far fewer bills – six this year, compared to 12 in 2021. This year's vetoes of bills to reform Maine's carceral system and strengthen workers rights were consistent with her vetoes of similar bills last year.

In the list of bills that Mills didn't veto this year, there's a lot to be excited about. Because those indicate that, unlike in 2021, Mills is being moved to negotiate with Mainers who have been building power around their issues.

One example of this is the Good Samaritan bill, LD 1862, which Mills signed in a public ceremony. In the past, Mills has been hostile to bills that address the opioid crisis as the public health issue it is. Last year, her administration opposed a bill to make drug possession a civil penalty rather than a felony. This year, however, powerful advocacy by a coalition of Maine organizations led to Mills signing a bill that makes Maine's Good Samaritan law the strongest in the nation.

This change was the result of hard, smart work in the public sphere and behind the scenes by committed activists from Maine's recovery, harm reduction, and re-entry communities as well as families, faith leaders, and advocacy organizations.

Another bill that illustrates this point was LD 1626, which would have recognized the inherent sovereignty of the tribes in Maine. Last year, the Mills administration testified against the bill, and it was pushed forward into this year's special session.

This year, LD 1626, backed by a powerful popular movement, passed with broad bipartisan support in both houses of the legislature. Wanting to avoid an unpopular veto, Mills asked the legislature not to send the bill to her desk. But she did sign another bill concerning the tribes in Maine that she'd previously opposed: LD 906, a bill to address the unsafe and deteriorating water system at the Pleasant Point Passamaquoddy Reservation known as Sipayik.

Mills also introduced and ultimately signed a counteroffer to LD 1626: LD 585, a compromise agreement with the Wabanaki Nations that gave the tribes exclusive control of online sports betting markets.

LDs 906 and 585 are not tribal sovereignty. But the gains from those bills will be real, and they come as a result of the power that the tribes, as well as the coalition supporting them, built in the public sphere and in Augusta.

Mills' governance this year must be seen in the context of the looming November election, in which she will face former Gov. Paul LePage (all legislative seats are also up for election).

Although one cannot speculate as to Mills' intent, some moves did seem designed to quiet potential criticism from Republicans, including issuing direct payments of $850 to about 858,000 Mainers with incomes up to $100,000. As Mills pointed out when she introduced her proposal in her State of the State address, this was an idea from legislative Republicans.

While the checks were vital to some, and a welcome infusion of cash to many more, the one-time payments spent more than half of the $1.2 billion surplus and left only about $12 million unallocated to fund passed bills whose costs were estimated at about $1 billion. That's money the state could have used to address urgent needs now, and plant seeds for the future.

Gov. Mills and MPA are not always in alignment on all the issues, but this session has shown that the governor can be moved by pressure both inside and outside the State House, and is willing to work with more progressive advocates toward the common goal of a more equitable Maine. This is much more than we can say about her predecessor and opponent Gov. Paul LePage, who during his two terms took every opportunity to roll back health care, gut the social safety net and child protections, and cut education, and whose actions, as well as the culture he created at the State House, made almost any advance nearly impossible.

With the elections in November, it's not clear what the next legislative session will look like. But if Mills is still governor in 2023, we look forward to supporting her in the pursuit of our shared goals, and continuing to push her to do the right thing on the issues that matter most to Mainers.

130th Legislative Session at a glance

The 130th Legislative Session ended its second year with much to celebrate. As COVID 19 rose and fell and citizen activism returned in force to the state house, legislators passed bills that will make real change in the lives of many Mainers. Yet pressure from powerful political players who favor the status quo led to some vital bills being watered down or left unfunded, despite clear public support for progressive changes, showing us where we have more organizing to do in the years to come.

This was the third year during which lawmakers were operating under the new reality of the COVID-19 pandemic. The pandemic has created tremendous hardships for many; but when our world is shaken, it creates an opportunity to build something better. It was in that spirit that ordinary Mainers from all around the state turned out in large numbers this year to tell their stories. And legislators got the message.

This year, Maine's legislature passed and funded bills that will, among other things, help tackle Maine's housing crisis, ensure that more Maine children have health care coverage, invest in behavioral health care, and bring us closer to addressing climate change, toxic PFAS pollution, and environmental racism in our state.

The state will meet its obligation to fund 55% of K-12 education as well as fully funding community college for Maine high school students who graduate in the next two years, and raise wages for child care workers. It will also provide a critical cost of living increase for state pension holders.

Other new policies will direct the state to respond more humanely to the overdose epidemic, help workers prepare for jobs in the trades, and lessen racial and class inequities in our legal, tax, and policy systems.

But we had the opportunity to do so much more. This year and next, Maine is expected to take in more than $1.2 billion more than originally projected. This kind of surplus is a chance to do something big, bold, and transformative, and make lasting change in the lives of Maine people. Instead, about half of the budget (which is largely negotiated behind closed doors) was used for $850 checks to about 858,000 people who earned as much as $100,000 last year.

This left just $12 million to split among nearly 250 vital bills the legislature had passed – bills whose combined costs totaled more than a billion dollars. As a result, Maine's response to issues including legal defense for low-income people and pay increases for public employees will be underfunded.

The absence of bold, transformational legislation to address Maine's most pressing issues was disappointing. But it wasn't necessarily surprising. Put simply, change is hard, and policies that would have made the kind of sweeping change we need ran up against entrenched institutions ranging from the industries that oppose tribal sovereignty, to well-heeled suburbs and rural small towns opposing changes to make Maine's housing market more equitable, to our investor-owned utilities. Those organizations exercised their influence to prevent or water down much-needed reforms.

But, as we saw, people who have the power to push back against these groups, especially movements led by those directly impacted by the issues they were fighting for, were able to get results.

We saw this in the movement to recognize tribal sovereignty and the successful passage of two less sweeping (but still vital) bills relating to the tribes in Maine, despite the loss on LD 1626. And we saw it in the effort to expand our state's Good Samaritan law, when a coalition of people directly impacted by the opioid crisis refused to back down in the face of a veto threat and won passage of a bill that will save people's lives.

When we pushed hard for progressive change, those who benefit from the status quo fought back. That's to be expected. But the fact that MPA members – the ordinary people of this state – challenged those powerful institutions and changed the conversation around what is possible is a triumph for all of us.

We're excited about continuing to help MPA members push for the things we all care about, and keeping entrenched powers on the defensive as together we fight for a world where everyone has what they need, contributes what they can, and no one is left behind.

MPA Champion Legislators

MPA is grateful to all of the elected officials who went above and beyond to work with MPA to champion policies that bring us closer to being a state where everyone has what they need, contributes what they can and no one is left behind. We couldn't include them all nor all of their accomplishments, but here are a few highlights from the 2022 session.

Thank you all!

As Senate Chair of the Taxation Committee, Sen. Ben Chipman (D-Portland) led an effort to target direct cash payments to those most in need. He also sponsored LD 484, which created a sustainable funding stream for affordable housing in Maine.

Sen. Chloe Maxmin (D-Nobleboro) refused to back down in the face of a veto threat, rallying a diverse group of lawmakers, directly-impacted people, and allies to pass the most expansive Good Samaritan protections for people using substances in the nation.

Rep. Charlotte Warren (D-Hallowell) fought tirelessly for an equitable budget, to fix an unjust carceral system and to save lives lost to the opioid crisis. This included rallying her colleagues to help pass the nation's strongest Good Samaritan law.

Rep. Thom Harnett (D-Gardiner) led the valiant but ultimately unsuccessful fight to allow farmworkers to organize and as House Chair of the Judiciary Committee, he helped rally his colleagues to support tribal sovereignty and deeply underfunded indigent legal services.

A long-time social worker, Rep. Lori Gramlich (D-Old Orchard Beach) used her experience to successfully advocate for deeply-needed investments in mental and behavioral health.

As a union electrician on renewable energy projects, Rep. Scott Cuddy (D-Winterport) noticed that women, people of color, New Mainers and working class Mainers were underrepresented in the industry. So he passed LD 1969 to ensure those most impacted by climate change are able to take part in the green energy revolution to address it.

Speaker of the House Ryan Fecteau (D-Biddeford) led reforms on outdated zoning and land use regulations, advocating for more affordable housing, strengthening fair housing rules, increasing energy efficiency and overcoming local exclusionary zoning. He also sponsored key investments in childcare and strongly supported tribal sovereignty.

Representative Rebecca Millett (D-Cape Elizabeth) sponsored efforts to raise the energy efficiency standards for all affordable housing (LD 1656) and to close the loophole that allows employers to retaliate against workers who use their earned paid time off, (LD 1338) which was ultimately vetoed.

House Majority Whip, Representative Rachel Talbot Ross (D-Portland) was a tenacious champion for racial justice, affordable housing and criminal justice reform. She sponsored numerous bills that advanced bold, progressive reforms including recognizing tribal sovereignty (LD 1626, 906), streamlining the permitting process for affordable housing (LD 1673), dedicating estate tax revenue to addressing the housing crisis (LD 1704), and ensuring Maine has the data and capacity to understand the complex impacts of potential policies on different people in Maine (LD 1610).

A long-time advocate for affordable housing, Rep. Victoria Morales (D-South Portland) went above and beyond to advocate for funding and reforms to address the state's affordable housing crisis. She created a powerful housing caucus, bringing legislators together to work on a wide variety of reforms, ranging from more funding for new development and general assistance, reclaiming blighted and abandoned land, a new voucher program, zoning reforms and much more.

By the numbers, LePage's impact on Maine's social safety net

During his eight years as governor, Paul LePage took a machete to Maine's social welfare system.

20% fewer people eligible

He tightened eligibility requirements for benefits through the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program, making 20% fewer people eligible to receive much-needed food assistance.

3rd most food insecure state

Under LePage, Maine became the most food insecure state in New England and the third most insecure in the nation.

14,000 fewer kids receiving funds

LePage successfully urged the legislature to change the rules of the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families program, resulting in over 14,000 fewer kids receiving funds than otherwise would have.

8x the number of kids in poverty

By 2017, the number of Maine children living in deep poverty was eight times worse than the national average.

20,000 people cut off Medicaid

LePage aggressively cut Maine's health care social safety net, kicking 20,000 people off the state's Medicaid rolls at the end of 2013.

55,000 people's benefits at risk

If elected, LePage says he would install tightened rules for Medicaid eligibility that could put 55,000 people's health benefits at risk.

40 public health positions cut

LePage eliminated more than 40 public health positions from the Maine CDC in 2015, a decision that would later hamper the agency's ability to respond to the COVID-19 pandemic.

For more information on these cuts to the social safety net and other disastrous decisions by LePage, check out the Beacon podcast's four-part series on his legacy. Coming Fall 2022.
